Introduction

This programme guide is designed to provide potential students with more general information about the programmes and courses offered by the Department of Art History in Concordia University, Faculty of Fine Arts than can be found in the University calendars. It is recommended that this Guide be used in conjunction with the University Undergraduate and Graduate Calendars, and supplemented with academic advising at the Department level.

The Department offers both undergraduate and graduate programmes. There is a four-term programme leading to a Master of Arts in Art History with specialization in the Canadian field. This was the first specialization at the masters level, in this particular area, to be established in Canada. It remains the most comprehensive Canadian Art History programme available.

The education in art history provided by both undergraduate and graduate programmes is designed to prepare students for postgraduate studies and to provide the opportunity to pursue a career in research and teaching art history at the university level, in museum and gallery work, in archaeology and possible in conservation and restoration of works of art.

Students wishing to apply for programmes in art history do not require a specific profile in the CEGEP.

Academic Advising, Art History

The Department of Art History prefers to assign (at the time of acceptance to the programme) all students enrolled in programmes in art history to a particular full-time instructor in the Department. This enables the advisers to become more fully familiar with each particular student's interests and academic progress.

Major Adviser	Chair, Art History	848-4700
Honours Adviser (for students accepted prior to 1988)	E. James	848-4697

Art History at Concordia

Traditionally, Art History studied art by examining style and iconography through chronology even though numerous other approaches to both history and the art object existed (e.g. historiography, social history, microhistory, technohistory, interdisciplinary perspectives, etc.). Recently, increasing consideration has been given to those other methods of situating the art object in relation to history, so much so that the practice of Art History itself has been substantially altered.

Diversity in the Discipline

In recognition of the various approaches used in the discipline, courses offered by the department have been grouped and identified as areas or types of study within Art History.

The streams themselves - Media-based Study, Period Studies, Archaeology, Art in Canada, Methodology, Theory and Criticism, Art and Society, Tutored Study - have also been designed to reflect the interests and expertise of the faculty teaching in the department and the department's location within a Faculty of Fine Arts.

Flexible Programmes

The principle of flexible and individuated education, is one that the department supports. The department no longer presumes that all students want or need the same type of programme. It is for this reason that mandatory courses in the Department's Major and Minor programmes have been eliminated. Each student's programme is constructed in consultation with and under the guidance of an advisor who co-ordinates the student's programme throughout its duration.

Focus in the Field

Students enrolled in the Art History programmes are required to take courses in a minimum of three areas of study, one of which must be Art in Canada. Beyond this basic requirement, those students who wish to examine the diverse nature of the discipline further may do so while those students wishing to concentrate their studies in one or two areas choose their elective accordingly.

Variety of Course Offerings

For the most part, the Department offers three credit courses as a means of making a wider variety of topics available to students.

Easy Access

In order to ensure that students can indeed take the courses that interest them, only thirteen of the fifty eight courses offered by the Department have prerequisites.

The Art History Department welcomes students from other disciplines

Art History Programmes

The Department of Art History offers a Major and a Minor programme in Art History, as well as a Minor in Archaeology. Students also have the option of a Major or Minor programme in Art History and Studio Art (half art history/half studio art).

The Department also offers courses to students in other departments of the Faculty, particularly to those in Art Education and Studio Art. All students in programmes in which the concentration is mainly studio art are required to complete a minimum of 12 credits in art history/art theory as part of their requirements.

Major, Art History - Degree Requirements

This three year Bachelor of Fine Arts degree programme, Major in Art History, consists of 66 credits for the Major itself and 24 elective credits (distribution requirements) to make up the 90 credits required for the degree. Full-time students normally complete 30 credits annually for three years.

Major, Art History and Studio Art

This programme permits students to combine an interest in both art history and studio arts. The programme is very flexible, students select their courses equally from the two fields so long as the prerequisites are respected.

Admission Procedures:

The foundation course for all studio art programmes in the Faculty of Fine Arts is Art 200, Studio Art I.

CEGEP graduates who have successfully completed the 10.6 profile (four specific studio art courses and two art history courses), or equivalent, are not required to submit portfolios when applying for the Major in Art History and Studio Art. Those who have successfully completed the 10.6 profile are automatically given an exemption from Art 200.

Applicants without the 10.6 profile or equivalent must submit a portfolio as part of the admission process. The portfolio requesting exemption from Art 200 should contain examples of drawing, painting, two- and three-dimensional design, sculpture or related media. At least 20, but no more than 30, works should be included.

Please note: Students who have been accepted with the condition that they must complete Art 200 may also submit a portfolio requesting exemption. Portfolios must be submitted at least two weeks prior to registration appointment.

Portfolios

A portfolio is a sample of your own work. It is sometimes used as a basis of admission (as in the case of applicants to the Major in Studio Art). It is also used to obtain an exemption from a course. Applicants without the 10.6 profile submit their portfolio to request exemption for Art 200. Also, a portfolio of work completed during your degree programme may be a vital element in gaining admission to a graduate programme or in obtaining a job.

Applicants are responsible for submitting their portfolios with their application - PRIOR TO 4 p.m. March 15th - to the Department of Painting & Drawing to request an exemption from Art 200, Studio Art I

Advanced Placement Portfolio

Students wishing advanced placement in any studio art course on the basis of work completed elsewhere must also submit portfolios. These portfolios should consist of 5 to 15 works specifically relevant to the medium concerned.

These portfolios must be submitted at the time of application OR at least two weeks prior to an applicant's registration counselling appointment, to the Department offering the course for which exemption is being requested. The deadline for submission of all portfolios is August 14th.

If more than one exemption is being requested, applicants may be required to submit portfolios to more than one department. In some cases credits may be awarded towards the BFA degree programme at Concordia if courses were completed at another university.

Degree Requirements

The three-year Bachelor in Fine Arts degree programme, Major in Art History and Studio Art, consists of 60 credits for the major itself, and 30 elective credits (distribution requirements) to make up the 90 required for the degree. ## Minor Programmes

The Department of Art History also offers three minor programmes; Archaeology; Art History; and Art History & Studio Art.

Students who wish a lesser concentration in more than one area of fine arts may combine one of these minors with another minor offered by the Faculty of Fine Arts to form a Double Minor programme leading to the Bachelor of Fine Arts degree.

As well these minors may be combined with Honours, Specializations and Majors both in the Faculty of Fine Arts and in other faculties. Students should be aware that these combinations in the Faculty of Fine Arts may require more than the normal 90-credits required for the Bachelor of Fine Arts degree.

Archaeology, Minor

This programme has been designed to allow the student maximum flexibility in choosing the area of archaeology in which to work, while providing a firm grounding in the subject. Students in the Faculty of Arts & Science may combine this Minor with a major, honours, specialization in a related field such as anthropology, classics, chemistry, physics. Special arrangements have been made for students in BFA degree programmes to add this Minor to their programmes. However, in some cases, students may have to complete more than the usual 90-credits required for the BFA degree. Students are advised to contact the secretary of the Department for more information, VA-422.

Requirements

- 6 credits Principles of Archaeology (ARTH 210)
- 6 credits Applied Archaeology (ARTH 310)
- 6 credits Field Archaeology/Topics in Archaeology (ARTH 410/415)

These courses present a mixture of archaeological theory and practice, with at least one course comprising some field work

Art History, Minor

This Minor is available for those who wish a lesser amount of concentration than that found in a Major in Art History, and also for those who wish to combine art history with another minor in fine arts to form a double minor programme leading to a BFA degree.

Requirements

- 3 credits Art History elective from Group D

27 credits Art History electives chosen from at least 3 of the Groups in Art History, in consultation with an assigned adviser

Art History & Studio Art, Minor

Also offered is a Minor in Art History and Studio Art which enables students an opportunity to follow a lesser concentration in both areas of study than is found in the major programme. Students may apply for admission to this minor programme along with another minor in the Faculty of Fine Arts to complete a double minor programme leading to a Bachelor of Fine Arts degree. Minors may also be added to a Major/ Honours/ Specialization programme in other faculties. Students wishing to add one of these minors to a Major / Honours / Specialization programme in the Faculty of Fine Arts will usually require more than the 90-credits normally required for the BFA degree.

Requirements

- 3 credits Visual Literacy (ARTH 280)
- 3 credits Methods of Art History (ARTH 281)
- 6 credits Studio Art I (ART 200), or, if exempt, a studio art elective
- 6 credits Art history electives

Related Services and Resources

Library, Norris Building, 1435 Drummond Street

Students enrolled in art history programmes should familiarize themselves as soon as possible with the location of the main library, the operating procedures and the location of the periodicals and monographs in Fine Arts. There is also a non-print section specifically designed for our students. During the first term of each academic year, efforts are made to provide students in art history with a special library orientation conducted by the non-print librarian. This orientation is conducted on a class-by-class basis in order to provide students with both the fundamental information concerning library procedures and to permit students to ask questions of qualified library staff. Concordia University students may use library materials available at other Montreal Universities although they are not permitted to borrow these materials. Generally students are issued a special library card upon presentation of a Concordia University I.D. card.

Slide Library

The slide library is a major resource centre for the needs of the Faculty of Fine Arts in general. This library now holds approximately 155,000 35mm slides. ### Photo Collection Department

The department also has a growing collection of 8 x 10 black and white photographs. The main thrust of this collection is the documentation of interesting and important works of Canadian art. This resource often requires photographing exhibitions and auctions of works in private hands.

John Russell Harper Memorial Reading and Reference Room (VA 407)

Located on the fourth floor in the art history area, the reading and reference room contains a small study area, reference volumes and periodicals dealing with the visual arts, to be used only in the room.

This room is available to students 40 hours per week under student monitors. A schedule of open hours is posted on the doors leading to the room.

Resource Centre

The Department of Art Education and Art Therapy has a curriculum Resource Centre in room VA202. The Centre contains selected art and art education magazines. It is open to all students 10 hours a week. Magazines may be read in the Centre only. A schedule of the open hours may be found on the bulletin board outside the Department Office,

Concordia Art Gallery

The Art Gallery and the Concordia University Collection of Art are located on the mezzanine of the Hall Building, Downtown Campus, 1455 de Maisonneuve Boulevard West. The gallery operates year-round and produce exhibitions of historical and contemporary art by artists drawn from across Canada and, frequently from abroad.

The gallery also initiates original exhibitions that circulate to other centres across Canada each year.

The Concordia Collection of Art, which is housed in the galleries, is the largest university collection in Canada, and is almost exclusively concerned with modern Canadian art.

Art History Undergraduate Students' Association

Although recently formed (1982), the Art History Undergraduate Students' Association has quickly become a major activity in the daily lives of many art history students. Not only has the Association provided the undergraduates with one of the best run reading and resource centres on campus (The John Russel Harper Memorial Reading Room), a room which this Association has become deservingly proud of, it has also continually and consistently devoted its youthful energy and talent to organizing events, both extra-curricular and academic, with the aim of providing enjoyment, friendship, and an environment which encourages personal involvement and growth.

In fact, many of the events which the associations's members participate in are designed to be both intellectually stimulating, providing insight to a particular area within the art history or fine arts community, while they are entertaining. A perfect example of this being this year's Friday gallery tours where students were invited to take a walking tour of three or four galleries and then to participate in a discussion with one of the owners.

On a more serious level, is the Association's ongoing involvement with the inter-university colloquium and the speakers committee, two activities which in the past have always provided the students working on them the opportunity to learn and develop the organizational skills needed for a major event while allowing them to meet fellow students outside of the campus.

Every year the Association has at least four executive positions to be filled, and, of course, there are no restrictions as to the amount of students who wish to become involved. If your idea of art history does involve more than just looking at slides on a wall, then we may be just what you're looking for.

Academic Advising

Academic advising is available both for students already enrolled in programmes in the Faculty of Fine Arts, and to those who are considering applying. Students may make an appointment for advising with a department adviser or with one of the Student Advisers in the Office of Student Affairs.

We recommend students meet with a Faculty Adviser for specific information pertaining to their particular programme requirements, for specific course information, and for planning their future programme.

Some of the purposes of academic advising are:

- To provide students with professional help in planning a programme of study which will best meet their individual needs.*

- b. To help students to re-assess their programmes from time to time in the light of the students' experiences, progress and changing interests.
- c. To provide students with the opportunity to discuss problems pertaining to their studies.
- d. To provide information of graduate schools and other types of programmes, as well as job opportunities for graduates in Fine Arts.

Appointments should be made by calling the secretary in the department office.

Office of Student Affairs

The Office of Student Affairs is located in the Visual Arts Building on the Downtown (S.G.W.) Campus. Here, students may obtain information concerning both Faculty and University regulations. Following are some of the services available in this office:

- assisting students in planning their programmes
- answering inquiries on regulations with the Faculty and University
- providing information on the University grading system
- any other student-related information

Students may make an appointment with an adviser by calling the secretary at 848-4612. The office is open from 9:00 - 12:00 and 13:00 - 17:00, Monday to Friday. Part-time students may also make an appointment during the early morning before 9:00, during their lunch hour or in the evening. These appointments must be made in advance.

Faculty and University Regulations

Students should consult the University Undergraduate Calendar for information on the following:

- Residence Requirements, both University and Faculty regulations
- Course Load/Studio Course Load

- Course Overload
- Writing Skills Requirement
- Student Requests

Programme Transfers

(Programme transfers are processed differently in the Faculty of Fine Arts)

Students already in BFA degree programmes at Concordia who wish to change from one programme (concentration) to another within the Faculty must complete a Transfer of Programme Request Form for the Faculty of Fine Arts. Forms are available in the Office of Student Affairs.

These forms must be approved by the Chair of the department offering the requested programme. Students should inquire at the Department office to verify deadlines and transfer procedures regarding portfolios/interviews/auditions prior to March 1st.

The completed form, along with a copy of their current academic record, must be submitted to the office of Student Affairs before March 1st each year for Faculty approval. All transfers approved by a department chair are deemed to be approved by the Faculty provided space is available in the programme requested. Students are notified of transfer by mail.

Students should be aware that to effect certain transfers they may be required to complete more than the 90 credits normally required for a degree. (Some courses already on record may not apply towards the new concentration.)

Transfer to Full-Time Status

Students in programmes in the Faculty of Fine Arts who wish to change from part-time to full-time must complete a Transfer of Programme Request Form. Students must follow the same procedures as specified above for Programme Transfers. To be approved for transfer students should have average or above average grades.

Registration Permission

For courses which require "written permission" students must obtain this permission from the Chair of the department prior to registration appointments.
